

Challenge #3 – Best Open Source Contribution

Linus Torvalds pioneered the Open Source community by creating the first Open Source Unix operating system. He believed that having many eyes on a project makes the most complex bugs seemingly trivial.

Since then making contributions to open source projects has become a popular and fruitful trend.

Find and make an impactful contribution to an Open Source software.